Description: This one-story Colonial revival house has a full-width brick masonry entry porch that is partially sheltered by a central low pitched arched roof supported on a pair of Tuscan columns. The central entry doorway is flanked on both sides by groups of three 15-light French doors. The entry stairway retains its original brick masonry stair cheeks. The house is sheathed with horizontal bevel siding and all roofs have eave returns. The main roof originally had a pair of eyebrow dormers. The eyebrow dormers were removed and replaced with a central gable dormer. Otherwise, the house retains much of its original character.
